

NSIC:

The National Small Industries Corporation (NSIC), an enterprise under the union ministry of industries was set up in 1955 in New Delhi to promote aid and facilitate the growth of small scale industries in the country

Single point registration : refers to a system where businesses can register once with a particular authority or organization to become eligible to participate in tenders or contracts issued by government agencies and public sector undertakings (PSUs).

Instead of having to register separately for each tender or contract opportunity, businesses only need to register once through this scheme. This simplifies the process for both the businesses and the government/PSUs, reducing administrative burdens and streamlining procurement procedures.

Credit support: NSIC helps small businesses obtain loans for both long-term investments (term loans) and short-term operational needs (working capital credit limits) from banks.

By doing so, NSIC aims to ensure that small-scale industries have access to the necessary funding to support their growth and operations.

Performance and credit rating: NSIC subsidizes up to 75% of the cost for small enterprises to obtain credit ratings from international agencies. These ratings help secure better credit terms from banks and attract export orders from foreign buyers, fostering growth and competitiveness.

Marketing assistance programme: NSIC participates in government tenders on behalf of small enterprises to procure orders for them.

SISI:

The small industries service institutes have been set up in state capitals and other places all over the country to provide consultancy and training to small entrepreneurs both existing and prospective.

SIDBI:

Technological Upgradation and Modernization: This involves investing in newer technologies and methods to enhance the efficiency, productivity, and quality of products.

help small businesses use better tools and methods to make their products.

aim to help small businesses sell more of their products not only in their own country but also in other countries.
